Nail decal or nail stickers are used to cover up unsightly nails or in order to accentuate the beauty of one's nails. Nail decal in the form of nail stickers have been used for many years. In the past, nail stickers were difficult to apply due to the fact that the layers of the nail decals were difficult to handle. The nails to be covered were typically hard to reach due to the layers of nail decals. As a result, the nail decals were not easily applied. Nail decals have evolved since the inception of nail stickers. An example of nail decals includes the use of a highly viscous, clear resin that is set on the nail by a specially designed decal applicator. The applicator will typically include a squeeze bottle for dispensing the resin, a brush and squeegee for spreading the resin onto the nail, and a plurality of support members. The support members are designed to hold the nail. The applicator is operated by squeezing the bottle to allow the resin to exit the bottle through the nozzle of the bottle. Once the desired amount of resin is dispensed onto the applicator, the nail is placed into the applicator and the brush is used to spread the resin onto the nail. When the brush is removed from the resin, the squeegee is then used to smooth the surface of the resin and blend the resin. Nail decals are typically used by individuals to enhance their manicure. The smoothness of the resin surface allows for the manicure to be polished. The polished nail provides a more professional appearance to an individual. Unfortunately, applying nail decals is difficult for individuals to do themselves. Often, the nail decals are expensive and/or time consuming to apply. Another problem with current nail decals is that the application of nail decals to the nail is very time consuming. Often, a user will need to apply several layers of nail decals before the resin has completely cured. The application of nail decals over several layers, thereby extending the time required to apply the nail decals, can be irritating to the user. There is a need for nail
