Q: Update element when element value is changed I want to be able to update the values of specific elements based on certain conditions but am having issues. As an example here is what I am trying to accomplish, I have a dropdown box in which the user can select the source of an element. Then, on change of that drop down box I want to update the values of all other select boxes (either select boxes or input fields) that are in the same page but with the same class name. Here is my current code: `$(".open-select").change(function() { if ($(this).is(":checked")) { $(''.thesis-source').`
