All files are packages, in the sense that they can be installed automatically using commands from the command line. As an example, I created the installshield-v12-cab.txt file. In it, I entered a simple install command that worked when I loaded the distribution into VirtualBox. But as soon as I tried to install this file on the server (with Ubuntu Server) it couldn't find the file. I'm assuming there is a file with the same name, but it has been deleted.
