Q: Getting a URI in a Web Service Created with WCF How do I get a URI from a WS for further use? I have used WebGet like shown below in all the usual overloads but none of them give me a URI and I need it. What should I be doing? Is it impossible to retrieve a URI when the WS has been created with WCF? public IList GetObject(String s, DateTime dt) { string cfgUrl = ConfigurationSettings.AppSettings["URL"]; Uri uri = new Uri(cfgUrl, "MainObject"); MainObject o = new MainObject { Date = dt, CountryName = "SPAIN" }; bool bStatus = ServiceProxy.Client.MainObjectTest(o); if (bStatus) { MainObject testObject; testObject = ServiceProxy.Client.GetObject(o.ItemID); return ServiceProxy.Client.GetArrayOfObjects(testObject); } else { return ServiceProxy.Client.GetArrayOfObjects(o); } } ServiceProxy.Client.GetObject The proxy generated by the WSDL must be used for this operation. And also How do I get the URI inside the Client Object? A: If GetObject returns only an object then you will have to cast the return value to your class and then retrieve the object from the returned object. You can then use the URI to fetch other objects via the URI. Here is an example (not tested): public IList Get

Q: Flash Error 2012: MAC Error - No Output I've recently got in to using Adobe Flash and I'm trying to make a small game. It seems to work fine but whenever I run it for more then about 1 min the game crashes with an error message saying "Error MAC 2012: No Output". Does anyone know what's wrong with it? I've attached a picture of the error. A: You should convert your swf file to true ActionScript 3 format first. Unfortunately ActionScript 2 is still on most people's CS2 brain, so if you have made a flash project in AS2, it won't work on most recent versions of Flash Player that support AS3. If you have no idea how to do that, find some resource that would explain this to you. 3d 108, 116 (2d Cir. 2000), the defendant stipulated at trial that he was responsible for the acts of "several other persons." He therefore waived his right to challenge the sufficiency of the evidence on appeal. United States v. Thomas, 274 F.3d 655, 660 (2d Cir. 2001). 5 Mechanism of binding of vitamin K-dependent binding proteins to phosphatidylcholine containing lecithin:cholesterol acyltransferase. The equilibrium binding of purified vitamin K-dependent protein (4.3 kDa) to lecithin:cholesterol acyltransferase (LCAT) immobilized on gels of controlled permeability is markedly temperature dependent. Below 16 degrees C, the rate of binding of the protein is initially slowed while at higher temperatures, ligand association kinetics remain unchanged. The temperature dependence of 4.3 kDa binding can be accounted for by the assumption that LCAT-bound 4.3 kDa may be shuttling from an environment where its net protonation state is zero to an environment with net net protonation state of -3. It is postulated that the extent of the shift in the protonation state depends on the amount of cationic environment provided by the ionized groups in the protein. Using a derivatization technique, it was shown that the binding of 4.3 kDa to LCAT occurs primarily at
